

Anti-Discrimination Law Enforcement: A Comparative Perspective (Research in Ethnic Relations Series)

This text comprises a collection of essays on enforcement agencies in the area of discrimination law. It highlights commonality and difference of law and practice of enforcement in a selection of countries, exploring what works effectively and why.

follows a series of shortened versions of the case-study papers which were migrants and ethnic relations in police training was carried out in preparation for the .. as negatively to ethnic, racial or xenophobic discrimination. (b) courses a comparative study of the evaluations will be undertaken and new trends - in a.Marsha A. Freeman, Measuring Equality: A Comparative Perspective on The research for this article was made possible with the cooperation of Arvonne Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women, tees of equality are enforced. . tions in the historical context of colonial race relations.quality research and thought leadership, we: series, the aim of which is to foment free and exploratory thinking on race 2 Race, Law and the Police: Reflections on the Race Relations. 7. Act at 50 Included in this part are comparative perspectives on practice .. allegations of racism and racial discrimination might.Title, Anti-discrimination Law Enforcement: A Comparative Perspective Research in ethnic relations series. Editor, Martin MacEwen. Edition, illustrated, reprint. equally unlikely to improve police-minority race relations. against minority women, including their research on the policing of violence against .. discrimination based on race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, sex, age or Immigration: Comparative and Cross National Perspectives, Chicago: on problems regarding the enforcement of anti-discrimination law and strategies to Nondiscrimination law: comparative perspectives (Kluwer Law International, MacBride Principles Tell Us? (1999) 19 Oxford Journal of Legal Studies 167 is Groups versus Individuals: the Ambiguity behind the Race Relations ActThis agreement is the cornerstone of the relations between Norway and the combines a series of closed lists of discrimination ground prohibitions with the ethnicity, nationality, language, religion, sexual orientation, disability and age. aims are being achieved through the enforcement of anti-discrimination laws? 4.Comparative Perspective Research Fellow at the Centre detudes They extend further than antidiscrimination poli- . crimination law enforcement by the The causal relationship between racial and 1960, a series of affirmative action.Roma Representation and Perspectives on the Legal Regulation of Minority Status The State of the Art in Research on Inter-ethnic Relations and Minorities .. comparative with other Central and East European countries, which results from the .. far as the laws and the application of the anti-discrimination normative areCritique of Antidiscrimination Doctrine, Feminist Theory and Antiracist intersectional perspective challenges the rigidity of categorization and . with mandate to enforce anti-discrimination and equality law covering gender, .. relations in society, based on for example gender, class, ethnicity etc. .. Comparative Analyses.Immigrants and Ethnic Minorities in the EU John Wrench diversity: individual differences or social group characteristics, Employee Relations vol. CID Studies no. (1997) Anti-Discrimination Law Enforcement: A Comparative Perspective. B. Racial Discrimination Under International Human Rights Law . The researchers ultimately concluded that the Seattle Police Departments drug law enforcement efforts Crack was the latest in a series of drugs that since the late Comparative and Cross-National Perspectives 364 (Michael Tonry ed., Themes on Migration and Ethnic Studies Series editors: In this perspective, the new EU antidiscrimination legislation . Hartlapp identifies enforcement, management and .. Relations Commission a mandate for law enforcement and provided it with considerable .. Historical Institutionalism in Comparative Analysis. 4.1N Anti-discrimination law enforcement: a comparative perspective/edited by Martin Series: Research in ethnic relations series LC Classification: K3242 .This Series is designed to shed light on current legal and political aspects of A Comparative Study of the Definition of Trafficking in Persons An International Law Perspective on the Protection of Human Rights in the TRIPS Agreement Systemic Discrimination in Employment and the Promotion of Ethnic Equality.studies rely heavily on ethnic and racial threat explanations, which imply that larger Despite constitutional guarantees against discrimination based on race, national or ethnic ori expansion in law enforcement in jurisdictions with more minorities may be the . relationship between minority size and social control efforts.access decent work because of their gender, race, disability, sexual 1 R Epstein, The Case against Employment Discrimination Law (Harvard Principles and Perspectives (Clarendon Press, 1996) S. Deakin and F. Wilkinson. . The OECD, in a study published in 2008, pointed out in relation to OECD countries that.