

America Online and Best Web Sites, version 4

This powerful resource is a combined Glance and Go online surfing guide and How-To instruction book for newbies as well as experienced AOL and/or Internet users. It covers - actually shows - everyone's imaginable interest or need (>1,000 sites shown) including even Web sites that continually rank the best web sites over time. There is even a chapter showing how to make your own professional Web page in fifteen minutes including graphics and hyperlinks and where you can host it indefinitely free of charge! Design and content of this 480 page book are considerably better than any book ever produced covering computer related subjects. For example, online directories and list boxes are fully exposed (our magic screens) so much more is shown in the book than is ever shown on one computer screen - no mouse needed in book for full exploration! Further, paragraph titles include online site access road signs and sites shown are pictured with a superimposed key symbol (with AOL keyword) and/or URL symbols to make places shown easily accessible (glance and go) from various AOL versions or other service providers as well. Online navigational aid road signs are also included in two Smart Indexes. The first Smart Index (Using AOL Smart Index) supports direct use of powerful AOL features without having to jump back to the referenced page(s) and get lost in boring reading. It provides page numbers plus the mouse clicking menu or tool bar path that will actually implement the AOL feature listed in the index. The second Smart Index (AOL & Web Surfing Smart Index) permits users to jump directly from the index to AOL and/or Internet sites listed - again without the least bit of inconvenience or any confusing reading. This book is an indispensable reference for quickly mastering the online frontier, or for just a relaxing book surfing adventure of the best material on the Internet.
