Written in the first person, Paul is the butler in a household where the patriarch has just died. There is worry among the staff that Miss Clara, the Colonels daughter, will have to marry in order to continue in her lifestyle. Miss Clara has other ideas and intends to run the household just as her father did. Including reprimanding the staff when necessary. That could be awkward given the nature of the punishment often awarded by the old man, especially when, given his frailty, he often had Paul conduct it while he sat close by, watching the details. She must first prove to Paul that she is capable. This story of 18,000 words and eight chapters narrates the period following the Colonels death and the staffs efforts to overcome the change and continue as they once did. It includes submissive staff undergoing spankings, sex and sapphic sex but underlying all this, it is a story of love. All characters are over the age of 18.
